Relatively Mild Winter Here; Third Freeze in Florida

About this time of year South-west Arkansas start counting the days until Spring, but comparatively speaking our section has had a mild winter, with a bottom of 16 degrees.

Much of the nation is confronted with one of the severest winters in history, particularly in the Eastern seaboard.

Knowing that our current week of cold weather was moving out Wednesday heading eastward, I telephoned Sarasota, Fla., Wednesday night to learn whether it had arrived in southern Florida. It had indeed.

Despite its location on a Gulf beach Sarasota on Wednesday morning had a low of 30 degrees, and a hard freeze in the truck crop area a few miles inland.

So the winter vegetable farmers of the Sunshine State have lost three consecutive crops in as many months—in November and December, while I was in Sarasota for surgery, and now this week's disaster.

The price of Florida winter vegetables is always high. It has to be, so farmers can build up a cash reserve to tide them over just such a disaster as the current season.

The resort hotels and motels won't suffer as much as you think. However cold it gets in Florida it's vastly colder in the North and Northeast, and lasts for weeks up there while it passes in a day or two in the Sunshine State. So just about now the "snowbirds" will be pouring into the St. Petersburg-Tampa-Sarasota area in a wild flight from the frozen North.

I recall an amusing device the local television stations used to comfort unhappy Floridians when the November freeze struck. The stations ran film clips showing 14 feet of snow in Anchorage, Alaska. Irrelevant, of course, but good news in the so-called tropics.

Laird Has No Plans to Close Major Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has indicated no major military bases will be closed in the near future.

"As far as major base closings," he said Wednesday, "this will be a matter that will be determined as we move forward with the 1972 budget and as we see what kind of response we have from the Congress to our budget submission."

The new budget is expected to go to Congress within the next week or so.

Although Laird now appears to have ruled out any major closings in the near future, he said some reductions still must be made.

"I am working on the plans now with the services to see that those reductions are brought about," he said. It is understood these cuts in operations and maintenance will involve training bases which were expanded for the Vietnam war.

Laird had said last month, following congressional cuts in the 1971 defense budget, that major base closings and cutbacks would be announced in January. It was not clear what brought about the apparent change in direction.

However, the Nixon administration is concerned with the nation's high unemployment level and any military cutbacks or closings would only add to it.

Watson Chapel Hearing Set

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Federal Judge Oren E. Harris of El Dorado set Feb. 5 as the date for a hearing to determine whether the Watson Chapel School Board should be held in contempt of court.

Harris had ordered the district to unify by last Monday in an order issued Nov. 11. Classes were held as usual Monday, the start of the district's second semester.

One Killed in Little Rock Hotel Fire

By DALA MCKINSEY
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A Baltimore man was killed today and 13 other persons were injured in an early morning fire that gutted the second story of the Sam Peck Hotel in downtown Little Rock.

The fire was contained on the second floor, with only smoke and water damage on the other three floors. The adjacent motel was not harmed.

Little Rock Police identified the victim as Richard Foristel, 58, of Baltimore, Md., whose body was found lying near a window in his room.

Pieces of a chair he apparently had attempted to break out a window with were scattered around the room.

Fire Chief Jack Davis said Foristel apparently died of suffocation.

The fire was reported at 2:24 a.m. by state Rep. George Nowotny of Fort Smith.

Davis said that Nowotny had returned to his room and had taken a bath when he discovered the fire in a party room adjacent to his room.

The hotel, located about six blocks east of the state Capitol, frequently houses state legislators when they stay in Little Rock for sessions of the General Assembly, which is now in session. No legislator was listed as injured.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., frequently stays at the Sam Peck when in Little Rock and frequent state-related meetings are held in the hotel.

The majority of those injured received minor lacerations or were hospitalized for smoke inhalation.

Davis credited the "exceptional calm" of the hotel's about 250 registered guests as the reason more lives were not lost.

The occupant of the room directly across from the victim's room saved his life, Davis said, by stripping his bed and throwing his mattress on a lower terrace and jumping.

A woman occupant next to Foristel's room apparently heaved a heavy table through a window to get air. There was blood on the carpeting and window sill, where she had apparently been cut climbing through the window to the fireman waiting outside on a ladder.

Mrs. Sam Peck, owner of the hotel, said that the room where the fire started had been checked only an hour earlier by a night watchman, who said he saw no signs of a fire.

Boyle Remembers When Pornography Hadn't Become Nat'l Industry

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is man's best beacon. It lights our path to the dear land of yesterday. Our memories keep us sane and make us human.

Your own memory is a pretty bright beacon if you can look back and remember when—

When a fellow left his best girl's house to go home after an evening date, he could impress her with his wit by saying "Well, I guess it's about time to wind the cat and throw out the alarm clock."

A hostess thought her small dinner party was a dismal failure unless her guests went through at least three boatfuls of rich brown gravy.

Anyone who could quote a line by H. L. Mencken was regarded as someone who should be watched and kept in close rein as a potential troublemaker.

It was hard to be elected sheriff without getting the local banker's nod.

More Americans chewed straws than sucked whisky sours through them.

If the fellows in the barber shop winked when a girl's name was mentioned, her reputation wasn't as good as her mother would have liked it to be.

$950 Million for Public Works Asked

By HARRISON HUMPHREYS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was asked today to approve $950 million in federal grants for public works projects in areas of severe unemployment.

In communities with at least 8.75-per cent unemployment last year, the bill would allow the federal government to finance 80 per cent of the cost of permanent public facilities ready for construction.

In a nod to the financially depressed construction industry, preference would be given pro-

Seniority System Is Loosened

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats and Republicans have taken first steps to loosen the grip of the seniority system on committee assignments, but no big changes are likely for a while.

Acting in separate party caucuses Wednesday, the two parties approved new rules giving members a vote on committee chairmen who now are selected solely on the basis of seniority.

Democrats also limited each member to one subcommittee chairmanship, a move that will open up about 40 prized chairmanships to junior members.

Republicans, whose caucus was marked by a close fight between conservatives and liberals over a top party office, finished their work but Democrats adjourned a 12-hour session still not ready for the opening of the 92nd congress at noon today.

Dale Bumpers' legislative program — reorganization of state government and repeal of the state's "fair trade" liquor law.

Both bills had been expected to face still opposition, but each won House endorsement by a wide margin. The reorganization measure was approved 92-4 and the repeal bill passed 85-13.

Both now go to the Senate, where opposition to each is expected to be more fierce.

The reorganization bill, which would consolidate into 13 principal departments more than 60 of the state's 180 or so agencies, boards and commissions, is considered by Bumpers to be the most important part of his legislative program.

The vote on the fair-trade repeal bill marked only the second time since the 1949 law was enacted that a repeal measure had come to a vote in the legislature, although there have been repeated attempts through the years to rescind the act, which sets the minimum prices at which liquor and wine may be sold in the state. Rep. Mack McLarty in Report to Public on Arkansas Legislature

At the beginning of this first report I must say that Donna Kay and I consider it an honor and a privilege to represent you in your Arkansas Legislature. We thank each of you, again, for your confidence and we will do our utmost to merit your trust.

As you know, Donna Kay and I secured a temporary residence the first week in January so that we could be in Little Rock for all the meetings and briefings prior to the inauguration of Governor Bumpers.

After being sworn in as Hempstead County's Representative, I voted in the House to elect Ray Smith of Hot Springs as Speaker. Representative Smith has an outstanding record of positive legislation and is most experienced and able to lead the House toward its legislative goals.

On Tuesday's Inaugural Day Governor Bumpers took the oath of office at 10 a.m., followed that afternoon by the largest parade ever (2 miles long) for an inaugural. Hempstead County was wonderfully represented by an outstanding float: a replica of the world-famous Hope Watermelon made by the

To Auction Off Old Records Saturday

Collectors of old recordings are reminded to be tuned to KXAR for the old record auction Saturday, January 23rd. The auction will start at 12:30 p.m. and will have to move at a fast pace to sell 372 lots.

The first hour 45 RPM country records will be sold. That will be followed by a few lots of public service shows that contain a lot of very good country and jazz. By 2:30 p.m. the used country and standard albums will be offered. There will be about a half dozen new rock albums in this group.

If the auction moves as fast as contemplated by Manager Haskell Jones, the archive items, about 1000-78 RPM will go on the block. They contain standards, jazz, country, gospel and race records, and may well be collector value. All records, along with six hours of air time are being contributed by KXAR for the local Girl Scouts.

The auction will be by radio and telephone, but the records will be available at the former location of Bud's Broasted Chicken in the shopping center where you can pick them up and pay for them. All proceeds go to the local Girl Scout Building Fund.

Nixon Briefs Cabinet on New Program

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The people in the country know there is something wrong with government. They think it's inefficient and often ineffective. People in this country are ready for a change."

These words were not uttered by a member of the new left, an anti-establishment revolutionary.

Actually, President Nixon made the statement to his Cabinet in a record-setting, three-hour session Tuesday.

After the administration's programs and budget for the coming year were outlined at the Cabinet meeting, Nixon said:

"We want to be the administration in '71 that presents an imaginative, innovative approach to government that, when it is adopted, will carry the country for another 100 years."

Nixon's remarks were private, and subsequent public

Byrd Ousts Kennedy as Democratic Whip as Congress Convenes

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats deposed Edward M. Kennedy as party whip today, as the 92nd Congress convened to face old problems and an ambitious agenda of new proposals promised by President Nixon.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, a conservative from West Virginia, was elected whip, or assistant Senate Democratic leader, in a major opening-day surprise.

He defeated Kennedy, who had held the job for two years, 31 to 24, in a secret ballot at the Democratic caucus.

Senate Republicans re-elected Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania as minority leader, 24 to 20, over the challenge of Sen. Howard Baker Jr. of Tennessee. It was Baker's second futile attempt to take over the top GOP Senate job.

Kennedy's defeat in the race for whip dealt a major blow to whatever prospects remained that he might eventually emerge as a candidate for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

The senator himself had said

5 Mill Hike Asked for Hope Schools

The annual Hope School District election will be held on Tuesday, March 9, and the deadline for filing as a board candidate is Friday, January 22. All Districts in Hempstead will hold elections on this date.

One of the key issues on the ballot is a proposal to increase the school tax from 45 to 50 mills. The School Board proposes to use the increase together with an expected surplus of one and three-fourth mills to set up a six and three-fourth mill continuing fund tax for a $600,000 bond issue which will run about 21 years and be used to construct and equip new school buildings and make additions and improvements to existing buildings.

Two school board positions will also be on the ballot. Incumbent Bill Tolleson has retired for Post No. 1.

Incumbent Jud Martindale has retired for Post No. 2. He has drawn opposition from James T. Rowland of Fulton.

In order to become a candidate a voter must file a petition listing at least 20 qualified voters with the Election Commission or with the County Board of Education secretary in Hempstead Courthouse.

Selects 13
Directors

Shareholders of the First National Bank elected thirteen directors as members of the board for 1971 at the annual shareholders meeting. Of 20,000 shares outstanding, 14,605 were represented in person.

Directors elected to the board were Guy E. Basye, Herbert Burns, J.P. Duffie, Vincent W. Foster, John B. Gardner, Jr., W. H. Gunter, Jr., Thomas E. Hays, Thomas E. Hays, Jr., Ray Lawrence, Syd McMath, Earl O'Neal, James H. Pilkinton, Lloyd Spencer.

Chairman Lloyd Spencer made the annual report to the shareholders, quoting figures indicating a year of growth and progress in 1970. Total assets were $17,881,110.68 as compared to $16,952,609.41 in 1969.

At the directors meeting following the shareholders meeting the following officers were elected: Lloyd Spencer, Chairman of the Board; Thomas E. Hays, Jr., President and Chief Executive Officer; Thomas E. Hays, Executive Vice President; Ray Lawrence, Vice President and Cashier; Charles Sharpe, Jr., Assistant Vice President; Lois O'Neal, Assistant Cashier; Dean Black, Assistant Cashier; Joe Eason, Assistant Cashier.

Last week an announcement about Explorer Post 92 electing officers omitted the name of Paul Patton who was named Quartermaster of the Post.

Vance Bledsoe, president of Hope Roundup Club, asks all members and prospective members to please be at the Hope Coliseum on Sunday, January 24, at 2 p.m. for a very special meet.

Key Pass in Cambodia Recaptured

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Cambodian troops recaptured the northern end of Pich Nil Pass today and South Vietnamese marines moving from the south were reported only three miles away from a linkup.

A press dispatch from the front said 1,300 Cambodian infantrymen seized the heights overlooking the northern end after enemy forces retreated, leaving behind the bodies of comrades killed in their bunkers.

Pich Nil Pass was the last enemy-held stronghold on Highway 4, the on main route to the sea. The North Vietnamese seized the pass and a second one farther south last November, cutting off the flow of oil and other supplies from Phnom Penh.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said this three miles of the seven-mile pass was the only stretch of Phnom Penh's highway to the sea still not under control of the South Vietnamese and their Cambodian allies.

U.S. command and control helicopters hovered over the South Vietnamese, overseeing their progress northward along Cambodia's Highway 4.

A Saigon spokesman said the force of more than 1,000 marines was meeting no significant resistance in the pass, which is midway along the 115-mile road that connects the Cambodian capital and Kompong Som, the country's only deepwater port.

"The marines are not moving too fast," the spokesman said, "because of difficult characteristics of the terrain."

The highway is flanked by heavy jungle and the marines were sweeping half a mile on each side of the road, he said.

Cambodian forces at the northern end of the pass were reported engaged in sharp fighting for the third consecutive day.

Details were not immediately available. But authorities in Phnom Penh reported 51 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops had been killed, while Cambodian casualties were seven killed and 61 wounded.

North Vietnamese troops controlled Highway 4 since Nov. 21, cutting Phnom Penh from its seaport and creating shortages of gas, fuel oil, other imports in the capital.

Guerrillas From Lebanon Hit Israel

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab guerrillas from Lebanon set off two bombs early today beside a house in the Israeli settlement of Meron, about six miles from the Lebanese border.

It was one of the deepest raids into Israel by commandos from Lebanon, who seldom venture more than two miles from the border.

Informed sources said the house was badly damaged but no one was at home. An army unit found three more bombs and disarmed them.

Israel has charged guerrillas in Lebanon with an increase in terrorist raids and shelling recently, and Israeli commandos have made several raids across the border in retaliation.

Egypt, meanwhile, publicized its position in the peace talks at U.N. headquarters, sent a memorandum to the U.N. Security Council accusing Israel of dragging its feet in the negotiations and suggested that the council "exercise its responsibilities in the maintenance of international peace" by taking a more active role in the talks.

The note from Egypt's U.N. Ambassador Mohammed H. El-Zayyat did not call for a meeting of the Security Council nor did it suggest what the council should do.

He said the outline of the Israeli position which Premier Golda Meir delivered to U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring when he visited Jerusalem recently "added no new elements" to the Arab-Israeli discussion and tended to escalate "the explosive situation in the Middle East."

In their statements, both Israel and Egypt again embraced the principles of the Security Council's Middle East resolution after the 1967 war: Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory and Arab acknowledgment of a sovereign Israeli state with secure and recognized boundaries.

U.S. Lets Spy Visit Father in Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has let a convicted Soviet spy temporarily return to the Soviet Union to visit his sick father, the State Department says.

Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said Wednesday Igor A. Ivanov, sentenced in 1964 to a 20-year jail term, was allowed to go in Russia and stay until his presence is required back in the United States for a court hearing.

Ivanov left from New York Wednesday night. He had been free on bail pending an appeal but was barred by court order from going outside the New York City, Glen Cove, Long Island or New Jersey areas. Ivanov was staying at the Glen Cove suburban estate of the Soviet mission to the United Nations.

McCloskey said the Soviet government had asked permission for Ivanov's return on a number of occasions. He said "there was no deal involved" for reciprocal return of an American from the Soviet Union.

The press officer said other reasons also were involved in the decision to allow Ivanov to return but declined to spell out what those reasons were.

The Justice Department said the court order, in Newark, N.J., which permitted Ivanov to return to the Soviet Union included a stipulation signed by him that he will return to the United States when directed by the court.

Russian ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin also sent a letter to the court, giving assurances that Ivanov will not violate the conditions of his bail.

defeated repeal legislation in 1969.

Bumpers also earned a victory in the Senate on passage of his bill restructuring the state turnpike authority to broaden its powers to construct toll roads. The vote was 33-1. The bill was sent to the House for final legislative consideration.

Rep. W. F. Foster Sr. of England, handling Bumpers' reorganization bill, asked the House to give the governor a vote of confidence and pass the measure. Foster said the measure would give Bumpers "the tools to make Arkansas a greater state."

Rep. B. D. "Doug" Brandon of Little Rock, a sponsor of the plan, said the bill would give the governor control over the executive branch of government that he does not have. Brandon said the voters choose a governor expecting him to lead the state, but that the chief executive has little power to lead.

Bumpers claims that the proposed reorganization would streamline state government and make it more efficient and less costly. The bill also vests broader powers in the governor.

All directors of the 13 proposed new departments, except the head of the Department of Correction, would be answerable to the governor and all would serve in a gubernatorial cabinet.

Rep. John Bethell of Des Arc previously was among the legislators who had expressed reservations about the new grant of authority to the governor, but he spoke in support of the measure Wednesday.

"It's a fine bill for an honest governor — that's the only reason I'm going to vote for it," Bethell said. "But woe and behold if we get a mean one."

Rep. George E. Nowotny Jr. of Fort Smith, one of two Republican representatives, said the bill was a "major step toward governmental reform."

Rep. David G. Orr of Texarkana said it would begin to make state government "more responsive to the people."

Rep. Andrew Schug of Paragould asked that the sponsors hold up on the bill so the House could give it more study. He said he had some questions that he would like answered.

The House defeated 34-57 a motion by Rep. Frank B. Henslee of Pine Bluff asking that he be allowed to offer an amendment requiring Senate confirmation of the director of the proposed new Department of Planning.

jects in which a high percentage of building costs would be for labor.

Rep. John J. McFall, D-Calif., introduced the bill in the House on the opening day of the 92nd Congress and said he expects 150 House members to sign the bill.

The Senate version will be sponsored by Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., chairman of the Public Works Committee. The bill is a liberalized version of an antirecession public works measure introduced last year by House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma and Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan.

The new bill eliminates two sections which came under attack last year. One would have limited a state's share of the public works fund to 10 per cent. The other would have required states or local subdivisions to guarantee the subsidized project would not cause a reduction in other planned construction.

The $950 million would remain authorized until spent, with no time limit, in areas whose unemployment rate was 150 per cent of the national average in either of the two most recent fiscal years.

The present national rate of unemployment is 6 per cent of the labor force; thus the grants would be available in areas with an 8.75-per cent rate.

Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D-Calif., a co-sponsor of the bill, also urged President Nixon to release withheld public works construction funds for federal projects.

He said $25 million appropriated by Congress for construction projects for the current fiscal year has been frozen by executive order, while one out of every three construction workers in the nation is out of work.

approved by each party are minimal, their adoption is a triumph for younger members who pushed for the reforms against stubborn resistance by party elders.

The GOP proposal, requiring an automatic secret vote in the party caucus on top-ranking committee members, appears to be more effective than the Democrats' which would put the choice of a chairman to a vote only if 10 members request it.

However, it is somewhat easier for the Republicans, who as a minority party have no chairmen, to take a stronger stand against them.

In either case, given the 50-year stranglehold of the seniority system on the House, few challenges are likely to be made and even fewer to succeed.

Only one chairman faces the prospect of a serious challenge this session—Rep. John McMillan, D-S.C., chairman of the District of Columbia Committee.

The Republican caucus was enlivened by the fight over chairmanship of the GOP conference, the third-ranking party post. John B. Anderson of Illinois, challenged by conservatives, won re-election by a vote of 89 to 81 over Rep. Samuel Devine of Ohio.

The Democrats, their leadership fight settled Tuesday with election of Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana as majority leader, blocked a move to deny Boggs the customary right to pick the party whip.

A proposal by Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, one of Boggs' unsuccessful challengers, to make the whip's job elective was tabled and a move to limit the whip's tenure to two terms in office was defeated 71 to 68.

Meanwhile, it was learned in Saigon U.S. advisers and South Vietnamese officers are traveling together on command helicopters in Cambodia, occasionally setting foot on the ground.

Sources familiar with South Vietnamese troop movements said U.S. advisers usually spend no more than 10 or 15 minutes on the ground, landing only for a briefing or for map coordination.

Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim refused comment on the report. He said earlier in the week there were no U.S. advisers in Cambodia, in the air or on the ground.

In spelling out limitations on U.S. air policy in Southeast Asia, Laird said Wednesday: "there are certain protections written into orders; there are certain controls that are written into these orders."

Officials said pilots are ordered to hit only military targets and to avoid civilian casualties and damage to religious structures.

There are indications U.S. bombing operations also are limited in areas near the borders of Thailand and that such attacks are carried out only after consultation with Thai officials.

This may be a major reason for reported Communist efforts to convert two Cambodian provinces along the Thai border, Pursat and Battam Bang, into sanctuaries for troop training and rest.

Pentagon officials indicated time limits are applied to authorizations for air attacks in specific areas. This, they said, is a device for maintaining a command bridge over air operations.

Where Laird formerly talked mainly of "interdiction" of enemy supply and troop movements, he now speaks in broader terms of "air support," obviously including close air cover for friendly troops and transporting them into battle.

Laird indicated U.S. air power is being thrown into the Cambodian fighting to supplement the growing South Vietnamese air force and that he does not expect such air support to continue for several years.

Laird contended such air operations fall within authority of legislation enacted by Congress. This drew a quick challenge from Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

Church called for a meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to hear testimony from Laird, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chief of Staff.

Church cosponsored with Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., the restrictive amendment to President Nixon's Cambodia aid bill barring U.S. troops from that country.

Pilots Told to Avoid Centers of Population

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials say U.S. pilots are under orders to avoid population centers and temples while supporting friendly ground troops in Cambodia.

U.S. helicopters and fighters flying support for South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops have "no open-end, blanket authority" to strike at any target in Cambodia, officials said Wednesday in elaborating on remarks made by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird at a news conference.

Meanwhile, it was learned in Saigon U.S. advisers and South Vietnamese officers are traveling together on command helicopters in Cambodia, occasionally setting foot on the ground.

Sources familiar with South Vietnamese troop movements said U.S. advisers usually spend no more than 10 or 15 minutes on the ground, landing only for a briefing or for map coordination.

Death Penalty Illegal, Says Official

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Fred Speaker, a lame duck Republican in a new Democratic administration, has declared capital punishment in Pennsylvania unconstitutional.

Ordering the death penalty abolished, he also decreed Wednesday that the state's electric chair be dismantled.

Speaker said the 24 Pennsylvania prisoners now under death sentence would, in effect, begin serving life terms.

Speaker, a 41-year-old suburban Camp Hill lawyer, was appointed attorney general last June near the end of the Republican administration of Gov. Raymond P. Shafer.

He said his ruling carries the full effect of law, the same as if the state legislature had overturned the 1913 electrocution law.

Speaker said his ruling would remain in effect unless overturned by the courts or overruled by his successor, J. Shane Creamer. Creamer declined immediate comment.

If Speaker's ruling holds, Pennsylvania will become the 14th state in the nation without capital punishment.

There has not been an execution in the United States since Lewis Jose Monge died in the gas chamber in Colorado in 1967 for killing his wife and three children.

The death penalty has not been carried out in Pennsylvania since 1962.

Speaker continues as attorney general only because a balky Democratic-controlled state Senate has so far failed to confirm Shapp's Cabinet appointments.

statements would suggest that he is gearing up for the 1972 presidential campaign by laying claim to being close kin to all Americans—young and old—who have complaints about the government.

The chief executive will outline his 1971 program in the annual State of the Union address to Congress Friday.

Early Wednesday morning, Nixon met with about 60 top members of the White House staff to go over again what he will tell everyone else on Friday.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler quoted Nixon as saying he favors "a revolutionary approach to government relevant to our times."

Asked what he meant, Ziegler said "Making government more responsive to the needs of the people."

Clearly, Nixon has been seeking new programs and approaches ever since the off-year elections last November proved disappointing to the White House and the Republican party.

Ziegler said some of the new initiatives Nixon will outline Friday "will be opposed by those who do not want change."

One thing Nixon obviously is enthusiastic about is a greatly expanded proposal for sharing federal tax revenues with state and local governments, many of them hard pressed financially.

Last year Congress ignored the Nixon revenue sharing proposal of gradually increasing the amount of federal funds to be parceled to states and local governments to $5 billion by mid-decade.

Senate Group to Probe Genetics

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senate panel will probe the federal role in genetic engineering what Sen. Abraham Ribicoff calls "a world beyond comprehension ... manipulating mankind."

The Connecticut Democrat said the Senate executive reorganization subcommittee he heads will conduct hearings in March to study long-range implications of research in manipulation of human genes.

Genes are tiny units that determine what living things inherit from their parents through a chemical process during growth.

Recent research with genes in efforts to duplicate nature's processes have caused several scientists deep concern about consequences for society, Ribicoff said.

He wants to determine the extent of federally sponsored research into programmed genetic alterations.

Ribicoff said the hearings, on "chemicals and the future of man," will look also at the federal role in regulation of food additives, drugs and other chemicals.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

THEY'LL GO TO ANY LENGTHS FOR A BREAK-UP

Dear Helen:

I only knew Jim two weeks before we were married, and then he left for Vietnam four days later. Because I was having lots of trouble at home, he told me to stay with his folks, so I went down south, 1000 miles away to be with people I'd never met.

They didn't like me, and I ended up being a baby sitter for all the relatives. I had a hard time keeping some of those husbands away from me, especially Jim's cousin. I told my in-laws about his passes, but they just laughed and said I asked for them. Then they wrote to Jim and told him I was flirting around, and they could prove it.

After that I went home. Yesterday I got a letter from Jim saying he'd heard from his cousin that I threw myself all over him. Because he doesn't know me very well (less than three weeks in all), he doesn't know who to believe, but he'll probably side with his family. His letters already sound like he thinks he made a mistake.

I guess I should tell you that Jim's folks are pretty well off while mine are poor, and don't get along with each other. His mother says he married me out of pity and I should just quietly get a divorce and forget this ever happened. They'll pay for it.

Helen, I love Jim. Should I give up without a fight? — ALICE

Dear Alice: No one should EVER give up without a fight. You may be the best thing that ever happened to Jim — if he's man enough to stand up against his family and let you prove it.

Keep writing the truth to him, and remember this: A lonely Serviceman would far rather believe a loving letter from a wife than a spiteful blast from a cousin. — H.

Dear Helen: This is in answer to those people who say rock music and festivals induce kids to take drugs. They are wrong! I listen to rock all the time, and though a few of the lyrics are about drugs, they don't make me go out and try to buy some. These songs reflect the states of mind of many people — they show the problem like it is, but don't create it. Songs, books, movies, the underground press do not by themselves encourage drug use any more than Romeo and Juliet encourage teen-age suicides.

Furthermore, I was at Woodstock and it was beautiful, but I stayed clean. I'm sure most people there didn't just start smoking or shooting because they were at a festival.

The choice is up to the individual, not the pusher, the rock musician, or the writer. Songs and publications do not hook people. People hook themselves. — MUSIC LOVER

Dear Helen: I want to tell D.W. (who blamed rock festivals for causing drug habits) to wake up and stop downing music for the weakness of her brother. No matter what anyone says, the majority of kids are NOT on drugs and they won't suddenly swing over just because of hard rock — or because someone offers to sell them some junk. Kids aren't that dumb! — L.T.

Dear L.: How right you are: Most kids aren't that dumb! And that's why the majority of young people will stay straight. I'll bet my bottom dollar on it! — H.

TIMELY QUOTES

I wouldn't take off my clothes. I'm too old-fashioned and I'm easily shocked. —Ingrid Bergman, on nude movies.

Nurse Tells About Kennedy Incident

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., wept when he informed his father of the 1970 auto accident that took the life of Mary Jo Kopechne, according to an account by a private nurse to the late elder Kennedy.

Rita Dallas, Joseph P. Kennedy's nurse for eight years, also recalled in the February issue of the Ladies Home Journal that Sen. Kennedy had a poor sense of direction while driving, once losing his way while taking his father for a drive.

"I was present, when, with tears in his eyes, Ted told his father about Chappaquiddick, 'I was in an accident, Dad, and a girl was drowned. That's all there was to it, but you're going to be hearing a lot about it on TV,'" Mrs. Dallas wrote.

She said that Sen. Kennedy has "grown up on the Cape, yet his sense of direction was so bad that there was a family joke about his never knowing which turn to take."

Kennedy maintained after the accident that he had taken a wrong turn before driving off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island. His passenger, Miss Kopechne, a secretary to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was drowned.

Helen is a Greek name meaning "light; bright one."

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK
ap television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Fonda returned to television Wednesday night in a new comedy series on ABC called "The Smith Family."

Fonda is a consummate actor. He is an enduring leading man because he has a style and grace that enables him to transcend his material and bestow upon it an integrity not always inherent in his script.

It is as if Fred MacMurray or Brian Keith or John Forsythe was away from "My Three Sons" or "Family Affair" or "To Rome with Love" and Fonda was filling in. It doesn't matter which one, all are 30 minute tranquilizers. The only difference is that Fonda plays a police detective whose family becomes involved in his cases.

The show is out of the same shop that created the other three, Don Feddersen Production.

There is nothing in "The Smith Family" to get upset about.

Fonda is such a gentle, understanding and thoughtful parent that real life fathers should take lessons. The kids behave like angels, even under the most trying circumstances. The mother, played by Janet Blair, resists every temptation to meddle and set everything aright in the manner of matriarchal comedies of the past.

On the other hand, there is nothing here that really lifts the spirit. Of course, it massages our illusions and fantasies and hopes. Deep down, we know we're really like the Smiths, even if we don't live that way.

There is nothing wrong with handing people a little comfort and solace. Goodness knows, we are hit over the head enough by the scolds. The wish is that this show had been done with more style, more insight, more wit, more guts, and had more meat and bones to it.

Fonda was last seen in a series in "The Deputy" some years back and his show is the first among a flock of series which will feature movie stars signed earlier this year. The others are scheduled to debut in the fall.

Earlier in the night, CBS explored the world of the penguin at Cape Crozier in the Antarctic. It was a part of the "Adventure" series and the marvelous photography was by Dr. William Sladen, a Johns Hopkins University ecologist.

The fascinating thing about it was that the penguins acted more like real people than any of the Smith Family. They faced danger, they squabbled, they mated, they divorced, they played in the snow and they hunted for food. They also achieved dignity and peace.

Rule Change Designed to Halt Injuries

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — The NCAA Football Rules Committee made its first change in offensive blocking in 30 years Wednesday, and chairman John Waldorf warned, "If this doesn't stop the injuries, we'll expand the rule to perhaps banning all below-waist blocking."

The new blocking change prevents what is termed "crack-back" blocking toward the line of scrimmage below the waist in an area within five yards of the permitted clipping zone.

The permissive clipping area is four yards on each side of the center and three yards on each side of the line of scrimmage.

Although concerned about the rising number of knee injuries, the college football rules makers held their fire on putting in a stiffer measure.

Other rule changes among the 19 passed concerned punts into the end zone and possible shortening of games through mutual consent of the officials and team captains.

Under the new rule a punt that hits in the end zone without touching a player on the receiving team will be returned to the 20-yard line. There were instances this season where punts hit the end zone and spun back on the field of play.

Under a new rule the referee, with the consent of the two team captains, can shorten the game such as in a runaway score.

Two rules passed involved the shortening of the length of the games. Time outs were trimmed from four to three each half per team. Also, the clock will be stopped after a penalty only until the ball is ready for play.

Other rule changes included: —When two opposing players catch the ball at the same time, each receiver must have at least one foot in bounds for the simultaneous catch to be ruled. The offensive team gets the ball.

—Position of the ball on the bounce after a fumble or lateral pass will be determined by whether or not the player who recovers has at least one foot in bounds at the time of recovery.

—It is a foul to "spear"—driving one's helmet into any opponent's body. The previous rule made it a foul only when a player speared the man carrying the ball.

—All fouls made behind the line of scrimmage by the defense will result in penalties being walked off from the line of scrimmage, not from the point of the foul.

Other rule changes included When two opposing players catch the ball at the same time, each receiver must have at least one foot in bounds for the simultaneous catch to be ruled. The offensive team gets the ball.

—Position of the ball on the bounce after a fumble or lateral pass will be determined by whether or not the player who recovers has at least one foot in bounds at the time of recovery.

—It is a foul to "spear"—driving one's helmet into any opponent's body. The previous rule made it a foul only when a player speared the man carrying the ball.

—All fouls made behind the line of scrimmage by the defense will result in penalties being walked off from the line of scrimmage, not from the point of the foul.

—Players must return the ball to the official or drop the ball after being tackled or scoring. No player can toss the ball away or slam it into the ground.

—Pylons should be used in bad weather conditions to mark the

Douglas to Defend Title at Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Dale Douglass was the forgotten man today as he set out in defense of his title in the $125,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

His name rarely was mentioned as a possible candidate for the $25,000 first prize, he played his practice rounds in splendid isolation and — even though the defending champion — wasn't invited to appear in a shot-making clinic preceding the tournament.

"Well," he mused, "I don't usually participate in that sort of thing."

While Douglass, a lanky, 6-foot-2, 155-pounder, doesn't make much noise in public, the quiet, thoughtful man from Denver owns a high regard among his fellow touring pros.

He recently was elected to the touring players policy board, was one of three players selected to speak to prospective players at the last PGA players school and, as a player, has won three tournaments and almost one-quarter million dollars in the last three years.

"All I do is play golf," the 34-year-old Douglass said of his lack of color and public attention.

He ranked as a top contender for the title in this, the third stop on the pro tour this season, but, as usual, most of the attention centered on Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper going into today's first round of play at the Arizona Country Club.

"I'm not playing as well as I'd like to," he said before starting out, "particularly with my putting. You have to putt well to win."

"I'm not one of those players who believes that we all hit the ball pretty much alike and that putting makes the difference. But I'm not putting well," he said.

Then, he was asked, you don't think you're playing well enough to win?

"Oh, now, I didn't say that," he smiled. "I didn't say that at all."

"I feel that if you keep hitting the ball near the hole and keep putting at it, some of them will fall. I try to play the same way every day. Golf is like automobile racing. You can't make a game plan. You just go out on the course hoping and trying for the best."

boundary lines of the playing field.

—Face mask foul signals are now official.

—No decorations are allowed on goal posts.

—The height of the crossbar of the goal posts is to be measured from the top edge of the crossbar to the ground.

—On touchbacks, the ball may be placed between the hash marks anywhere on the 20-yard line.

Pro Bowl to Pitt Old AFL, NFL Rivalry

LOS ANGELES (AP)—There are strong indications, including the words of Jim Otto and the vote for team captains on the American Conference All-Star squad, that Sunday's Pro Bowl will have one element the Super Bowl lacked—the deep emotion of the old AFL-NFL rivalry.

"The majority of the players on the American Conference team are from the old AFL," said Otto, an 11-year veteran who goes back to the AFL's beginning. "So from that standpoint, it's almost like AFL versus NFL."

That fact would seem to be underscored by the selection of captains for the game in which 40-man squads from the AFC and NFC will tangle Sunday at 1 p.m. PST in the final contest of pro football's first season under its new two-conference structure.

In the vote for captains Wednesday, the AFC players, with 32 representatives from old AFL teams, selected a quintet of former AFLers as their leaders—Otto, quarterback Daryle Lamonica and Cornerback Willie Brown from Oakland, and linebacker Willie Lanier and defensive end Jerry Mays from Kansas City.

Left on the outside were the eight players from the three teams that joined the 10 AL clubs in the AFC this season, including linebacker Mike Curtis, defensive end Bubba Smith and safety Jerry Logan from the Super Bowl champion Baltimore Colts.

But then this game, as Otto sees it, means more to those whose talent was derided in the early years of the AFL than to any newcomers.

"We're all here to play for one purpose—to make the AFC a winner," Otto explained. "But the old AFL player probably will be playing with a pride he wouldn't have if he was a rookie. It's not that we're not happy to have Baltimore, Cleveland and Pittsburgh as part of us."

"It's just that this is the big one for the Willie Browns, the Johnny Robinsons, the Walt Sweeneys—the game we wanted for some time. For those of us who played in the AFL All-Star game this is a long awaited game. I wouldn't think it's the same on the NFC side."

"Every year, after I played in the AFL All-Star game and would go around to banquets, people would ask if the AFL had a Pro Bowl. You hear enough of that kind of thing and you get tired of it."

Mays, however, doesn't feel the AFL-NFL factor as deeply as he thought he would, and he cites the NFL orientation of the Dallas-Baltimore Super Bowl as a major reason.

He said, "The rivalry seems to be fading faster than I thought it would, particularly because there were two NFL teams in the Super Bowl."

Coach John Madden of the Raiders, meanwhile, hears what Otto and Mays has said and offers this perspective: "These players are all here because they are great and they are great because they have pride in being great.... Their own pride is more dominant than the league thing. But I have to say it is still a factor."

The number of outstanding players is unquestioned, including all the offensive statistical leaders in the two conferences —passers John Brodie of San Francisco, AFC, and Lamonica, AFC; rushers Larry Brown, of Washington, NFC, and Floyd Little of Denver, AFC; and receivers Dick Gordon of Chicago, NFC, and Marlin Briscoe of Buffalo, AFC—plus an equal compliment of defensive standouts.

Laver Going Against Ashe for No. 5

NEW YORK (AP) — Rod Laver, with four victories in 14 days, shoots for No. 5 tonight against Arthur Ashe in the Tennis Champions Classic at Madison Square Garden.

"The pressure mounts with each match," says the rocket-slammung Laver, who has whipped Ken Rosewall, Roy Emerson, John Newcombe and Tony Roche thus far in the $210,000 multi-city tournament. Rosewall takes on Tom Okker

In the opener of a doubleheader with Laver meeting Ashe in the nightcap.

If Ashe is at the top of his game, he could spell trouble for Laver, the left-handed power-hitter from Australia considered the No. 1 player in the world.

In 1970, Ashe appeared in 30 tournaments, won 11, and finished second in earnings to Laver with $141,000. Laver won $201,000.

Ashe, from Gum Springs, Va., is the only American usually mentioned in the same breath with the Australian tigers Laver, Rosewall, Newcombe and Roche.

Summerall Famous for His Kicking

By HARRY KING

Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pat Summerall kicked 101 field goals during his career in the National Football League, but one overshadowed the rest.

The year was 1958 and the New York Giants were trailing the Cleveland Browns 13-10 with time running out. Summerall came off the bench and booted a 53-yarder through a blizzard that gave the Giants a tie and forced a playoff for the Eastern Conference championship.

New York's victory over the Browns in that playoff game boosted the Giants into the NFL championship game which they lost 23-17 to the Baltimore Colts in sudden death overtime.

In the 13-13 tie with the Browns, snow had wiped out the yard markers.

"We'll never know exactly how far it was," says Summerall, who will be inducted into the Arkansas Hall of Fame Friday night at Hot Springs. "The man holding the chains later told me he thought it was a 55-yarder. Some say it was longer. I'll always regret not knowing for sure. It's 53 in the record book."

Summerall was a 10-year man in the pros (1952-61) and, in 1959, led the NFL in field goals with 20. During one three-game victory stretch in 1959 he kicked nine field goals as the Giants won 9-7, 9-3 and 9-6.

Besides his field goals, Summerall kicked 254 extra points, including 129 in a row.

Summerall played high school ball at Lake City, Fla., and then migrated to the University of Arkansas as a two-way end. As a senior in 1951, Summerall kicked four field goals, including a 20-yarder that enabled the Razorbacks to claim a 16-14 victory over Texas — Arkansas' first in 14 years.

He says he still has the game ball from the 1951 victory in the basement of his Saddle River, N. J. home.

Summerall's field goal against Texas came late in the first half and gave the Razorbacks a 9-7 lead.

"Really, I shouldn't have been in there against Texas," he said. "The ball was placed down on the 10-yard line, and that's just a point after touchdown. And, I didn't kick conversions. The only reason I was the field goal man was that I kicked off."

Summerall became eligible for the Hall of Fame when he turned 40 last May 10.

He now does three radio shows a day for a New York station and gets select assignments from CBS-TV on national telecasts of professional sports, including football, basketball and golf.

Second Half Bursts Win for 3 Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Nets, Memphis Pros and Carolina Cougars came back for seconds Wednesday night—second halves, that is—and sent the Floridians, Denver Rockets and Virginia Squires away hungry.

Second-half bursts carried the Nets to a 113-104 victory over the Floridians, the Pros to a 120-103 triumph over the Rockets and the Cougars to a 114-104 win over the Squires in American Basketball Association action.

In the National Basketball Association, it was Milwaukee 120, Baltimore 116; Chicago 109, the New York Knicks 103; Boston 142, San Diego 112; Seattle 112, Atlanta 108; Buffalo 126, Portland 106 and Cincinnati 126, Phoenix 114.

The Nets led the Floridians only 50-47 at the half but pulled away to a 95-80 lead with 6½ minutes left as Rick Barry scored 32 points and Bill Melchionni 25. Mack Calvin had 27 and Larry Jones 25 for the losers.

Memphis outscored Denver 23-6 after the intermission for an insurmountable 70-49 spread. Steve Jones paced the Pros with 29 points while Larry Cannon had 26 for the Rockets.

Carolina ripped off nine straight points at the start of the fourth quarter and rolled

It Only Seems the Games End in Tie

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite vicious rumors to the contrary, every National Hockey League game that Philadelphia plays against New York does not end in a tie.

It only seems that way.

The Flyers and Rangers pulled another sister-kissing act Wednesday night, but for New York this 3-3 deadlock was like a romantic embrace and for Philadelphia it was like a gentle peck. That's because the Rangers didn't get

High Echelon to Be Retired Immediately

MIAMI (AP)—High Echelon, the 1970 Belmont Stakes winner, will be retired immediately, trainer John Jacobs announced here Wednesday, saying he did not want to jeopardize the colt's career.

"It wasn't easy, but it was the only thing we could do," said Jacobs. "He is a brilliant horse and I just didn't want to put his career in jeopardy."

Jacobs did not elaborate on reason for the sudden announcement, saying only "this way we can book him for a complete season at stud."

High Echelon's racing career came to an abrupt end in his Hialeah Park stall as he was training for Saturday's Royal Palm Handicap.

"This comes as quite a shock," Hialeah racing secretary Kenny Noe Jr. said when informed. "I was certain the horse was going to run Saturday."

Kiner, Berra Candidates for Fame Hall

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Yogi Berra, the New York Mets coach who rose to stardom with the crosstown Yankees, and Ralph Kiner, at one time the power of the Pittsburgh Pirates, were strong candidates today for baseball immortality—election to the Hall of Fame.

The results of this year's voting by more than 400 writers who have at least 10 years membership in the Baseball Writers Association of America were to be announced at a news conference in the offices of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

To be elected, a candidate must be named on 75 per cent of the ballots.

The conference was scheduled for 11 a.m., EST.

Early Wynn, the intensely competitive pitcher who was the sport's last 300-game winner, was considered another top possibility for baseball's greatest honor and there was support for Mets Manager Gil Hodges who became a legend to the Flatbush Faithful during his career as a Brooklyn Dodger.

Berra is eligible for the Hall for the first time. A candidate must be inactive as a player for five years to gain eligibility. Berra retired as a Yankee player in 1963 but after managing the Yanks for a year he made a brief comeback with the Mets in 1965.

The only men ever to be voted in on their first chance were Stan Musial, Ted Williams, Bob Feller and Jackie Robinson.

Berra was a three time American League Most Valuable Player—1951-54-55—in 17 full seasons with the Yankees.

Kiner, now a Mets broadcaster, in seven full years with the Pirates accomplished something no other man in either league has ever done. He won or shared the league's home run championship in each of those seasons.

Wynn, a right-hander who had his best years with Cleveland—four 20-victory-or-more seasons—won his 300th and last game with the Indians in 1963. He is now the Minnesota Twins' pitching coach.

Other candidates include Enos Slaughter, Johnny Mize, Marty Marion, Pee Wee Reese, Red Schoendienst and George Kell.

Haywood Is Battling on the Court Too

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spencer Haywood's battle in the federal courts continues at a standstill ... but he's certainly not standing still on a basketball court.

While the legal hassle continued over his jump from the American Basketball Association to the National, Haywood fired in 23 points and grabbed 18 rebounds to lead Seattle over Atlanta 112-108 in the NBA Wednesday night.

Haywood was playing only hours after the U.S. Court of Appeals sat in San Francisco and the court took his case under advisement. Haywood, the former University of Detroit star, quit a $1.9 million contract with Denver of the ABA earlier this year, sparking the legal arguments.

Atlanta became the 11th straight opponent to protest a Seattle game because of the appearance of Haywood, who is not recognized by the NBA as an official player.

Elsewhere in the NBA Wednesday night, Milwaukee whipped Baltimore 120-116; Buffalo ripped Portland 126-106; Chicago tripped New York 109-103; Boston tamed San Diego 142-112 and Cincinnati defeated Phoenix 126-114.

In the ABA, it was New York

113, Floridians 106; Carolina 114, Virginia 104 and Memphis 120, Denver 103.

Haywood went the full 48 minutes for the first time in the NBA as he sparked an early Seattle lead. Then reserve Barry Clemens and player-coach Lennie Wilkens combined for 21 last-quarter points to stop Atlanta's comeback try.

Low Alcindor scored 39 points and grabbed 20 rebounds to lead Milwaukee over Baltimore, the 10th straight victory for the Bucks. Alcindor scored four of his points to give Milwaukee a 116-112 lead with 1½ minutes to play, then blocked Wes Unseld's layup attempt with under a minute left.

Buffalo scored the game's first goal and never lost the lead, hitting 18 straight free throws at the start, to beat fellow expansionist Portland.

Chicago wasted most of a 21-point lead, and held off a flurry by New York's Willis Reed and Walt Frazier. Chicago's Jerry Sloan scored 24 points, including three vital field goals in the last half, and had 24 rebounds.

Says Attitude Unfair to Women Players

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's attitude toward women professionals was described Wednesday by Billie Jean King as unfair to the rights of the girls' pocketbooks.

"Those rich people have no idea how badly some of us need the money to make expenses" on a tennis tour, Mrs. King said after the world's second-ranked woman player arrived for pro competition at the Brook Club.

The association had declined last fall to sanction increases in women's prize money in relation to winnings of men in the Pacific Southwest meet in Los Angeles.

Association officials "have lost touch with the women's segment of tennis," Mrs. King 27, said.

She is top-seeded in the $12,500 U.S. Women's Professional Tennis Tournament Brook Club meet, and leads the circuit's money earnings with $7,050.

The Californian said she has been considering some sort of protest boycott for several years "if the rest of the girls would back me up. But it never materialized."

"Everyone claims the men get better crowds," she said. "But at their Los Angeles tournament, they only drew 2,000 while we got 3,500 in Long Beach."

She won her first Brook Club match Wednesday when her Milwaukee opponent defaulted because of illness. The opening night drew 350 persons.

Meanwhile, tourney sponsors said fourth-seeded Nancy Richey Gunter of San Angelo, Tex., bowed out of the Milwaukee meet for a tonsillectomy, and probably would also miss the meets in Oklahoma City and Chattanooga.

On Welfare, Lived in a Plush Hotel

NEW YORK (AP) — Three city welfare employees have been suspended on orders from an irate Mayor John V. Lindsay for placing a Brooklyn welfare mother and her four children in two rooms at the posh Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Lindsay called for a full investigation Wednesday upon learning that the family was in a $70-a-night suite. He said in a statement that the incident "may well have had a malicious intent."

The mother, Cleola Hainsworth, moved to a friend's apartment after one night in the hotel. Mrs. Hainsworth told newsmen she had not wanted to stay in the Waldorf in the first place.

"I told the welfare people that I would rather go to my girl friend's and that my girl friend was willing to put us up in two rooms for $100 a week. They said a flat, 'No,'" she said.

"And now that's what they've done."

Mrs. Hainsworth and her children had been staying at a Brooklyn hotel where the city paid $186 a week for one big room. They had to move when the hotel became filled with out-of-town guests.

Mrs. Hainsworth said she preferred the Brooklyn hotel: "It was very beautiful. We even had a sun porch. But the children liked the Waldorf more. They thought it was filled with movie stars."

A spokesman for the Waldorf-Astoria said the city had booked the rooms for Mrs. Hainsworth and that the hotel knew it was for a welfare family.

"We don't have any reason not to take a person who can pay and is well-behaved," he said. "So far as the hotel is concerned the rooms are paid up until checkout time tomorrow and the family can remain until then."

But when word of the incident leaked out, a city welfare investigator arrived and hastily escorted the family out Wednesday evening.

Lindsay's statement said he was "deeply angered and outraged over this incident" adding, "It shows colossal bad judgment or worse."

When it is unable to find other accommodations, the Welfare Department customarily puts relief clients in hotels, although not normally of the Waldorf's reputation.

A department spokesman said the employees involved checked their regular list of welfare hotels and couldn't find a vacancy when Mrs. Hainsworth came to them Tuesday.

"However," the spokesman added, "I don't have the slightest idea how they came up with the Waldorf-Astoria."

Mrs. Agnew Says Husband Even Tempered

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew describes the vice president as "a very even-tempered person. He doesn't get excited. If we have a disagreement we can talk about it and iron it out, according to an article in the February issue of McCall's magazine."

"I've made myself not get upset when people criticize Spiro," said Mrs. Agnew. "I'd be upset every day of the week otherwise."

In the McCall's article, Mrs. Agnew said she would not stand in her husband's way if he decided to run for president.

Mrs. Agnew says the job of the vice president's wife is not any different from that of any other wife. "It's being there when her husband needs her. Of course, I try to fill the official role the best I can, too."

Says Vietnam Reds Active Politically

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker said today that the Communists are stepping up their efforts on the political front in South Vietnam, and 1971 may be a potentially dangerous time for the nation.

"Present prospects are that the purely military aspect of the conflict will continue at a low level," Bunker said.

In a speech prepared for delivery to Saigon's American Chamber of Commerce, Bunker said 1971 will be "a time of testing of the nation's constitutional machinery and political maturity" because of the house of representatives election in August and the presidential election in October.

"It may also be a potentially dangerous time," he warned, "for in the face of continuing military reverses, the enemy is stepping up his efforts on the political front, attempting to penetrate protest groups, to increase divisive pressures and to take advantage of various weaknesses in Vietnamese society."

Bunker noted "significant" unrest during the past year among students and veterans resulting from weariness with the war and its inequities. He said governmental response to this "was eventually forthcoming," but "the attendant turmoil provided opportunists with a chance for political exploitation and Communists an opportunity for agitation."

Even more serious, the ambassador continued, were the economic problems resulting from the war, but he said he thinks the major economic reform program launched in September and October is working. Bunker said, however, that "economic problems and inflation will continue to be a matter of concern."

Reviewing the military situation, Bunker said that in Vietnam "the enemy has adopted a policy of protracted war employing small unit operations, terrorism, sapper activity and efforts at political penetration. A substantial part of his resources is now tied down in Laos and Cambodia."

"Much of his effort, of necessity, has been diverted to the development of a new logistical system. As we advance further into the dry season, it seems probable that he will devote a major part of his effort to Cambodia while he attempts to increase pressure on Laos. Developments in these two countries, especially in Cambodia, will therefore have a critical bearing on the situation in South Vietnam."

The "key question in 1971," said the ambassador, will be whether the current rate of improvement in the Saigon government's situation will be "sufficient to handle the enemy's tactics and to prevent regression" as the withdrawal of U.S. forces continues.

The ambassador said progress in securing the countryside has been such that the term pacification is outdated and has been abandoned. The name is now "the 1971 Community Defense and Local Development Plan," he said.

This plan has two general objectives, Bunker continued: to consolidate territorial security gains by coordinating community defense plans and to stimulate local development by decentralizing authority.

Simplified Form Giving IRS Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is having more trouble with its best-known publication—the new, revised, simplified, easier-to-understand tax form 1040.

It seems large numbers of Americans filling their income tax forms early this year are overlooking a new peel-off mailing label on 1040. It isn't being peeled off and the International Revenue Service is disturbed.

In the first week of 1971, IRS officials said, up to 10,000 out of 100,000 early filers either failed to use the peel-off label or list their names, addresses or Social Security numbers at the top of 1040.

The peel-off label, attached to the basic tax package mailed to millions of taxpayers by IRS, includes the name, address and Social Security number as recorded on a taxpayer's 1969 return.

IRS is asking taxpayers to peel it from the front page of the package and paste it in the proper place at the top of 1040. If the label isn't used, taxpayers must fill in the section themselves.

In past years, no peeling was required. The label was in the proper place, saving taxpayers the trouble of filling out their names, addresses and Social Security numbers if the information on the label proved correct.

IRS went to the peel-off label this year when it made another revision in form 1040 in hopes of making it easier for taxpayers to read and easier to fill out. Using the label speeds processing, IRS says.

But officials indicated the habits of a number of taxpayers haven't changed.

"All we have in some cases is a signature," the spokesman said. "In such cases, we don't know how to get in touch with them."

If the trend continues, it could mean a lot of delayed refunds, a slowdown in processing, and a mass of defective returns.

W-2 forms usually, but not always, include the information about a taxpayer required by IRS, the spokesman said. The W-2 forms are supposed to be clipped to the back of form 1040.

Says Welding Methods Unauthorized

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—James H. Eversmeyer, superintendent of the former Selb Manufacturing Co. of Walnut Ridge testified in U.S. District Court here Wednesday that about 70 per cent of the parts made by Selb for the controversial F111 fighter-bomber contained unauthorized weldings.

Eversmeyer was called as a witness in the trial of James L. Townley of Hurst, Tex., former quality assurance superintendent for General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., the prime contractor for the F111.

Townley is the first of seven persons to be brought to trial on charges of conspiring to conceal defective parts made by Selb for the F111. The trial began Monday.

Eversmeyer testified that Selb had trouble machining the parts to the prescribed tolerances and used the welded material to build up under cut areas so the parts could be machined again.

Selb had a contract with General Dynamics to make the upper and lower wing pivot plates that absorbed much of the stress from the movable wings and 16-foot longerons, two of which supported the tail section of the plane.

Unauthorized weldings began in 1968 after Selb had accumulated a number of parts that had been machined too deeply, Eversmeyer said. He said Melvin C. Davis, manager of the Selb plant, told him that the company was going to start welding the parts. He said he was warned by Davis to conceal the weldings from Roy Spear, a General Dynamics inspector.

Eversmeyer said that Spear found out about the unauthorized weldings and the practice was stopped. The weldings resumed in about two weeks with Spear's knowledge, he said.

The government has charged that Selb officials gave Spear "gratitudes" so he would not report the unauthorized weldings.

Century Plant

The name century plant for the agave came from the mistaken idea that the American century plant blooms only once in 100 years. Some kinds flower every year and others at longer periods, but none blooms so rarely as once in a century.

British Postal Strike Gains Foreign Aid

LONDON (AP) — A threat of foreign support for striking British postal workers grew today in response to an appeal for foreign unions to cut communication links with Britain.

The day-old walkout—the first in the history of the British Post Office—appeared headed into a lengthy stalemate with the Cabinet's decision not to intervene. All mail and cable services were halted, but almost 90 per cent of the nation's telephones continued working on automatic systems.

In Brussels, the general secretary of the Post, Telephone and Telegraph International, Stefan Nedzinski, said he had asked unions everywhere to support the walkout. The PTTI represents about 2.5 million workers in 82 countries.

Tom Jackson, general secretary of the 230,000-member Union of Postal Workers asked the PTTI on Wednesday night to urge unions in other countries to "cut Britain off." The appeal said some nonunion operators still were working manual transcontinental exchanges in Britain.

Pain at the Right Spot And Time Indicate Ulcer

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Often you can make a diagnosis of a peptic ulcer from the symptoms it causes. When the symptoms are sufficiently characteristic, the ulcer is usually there even if it cannot be seen by X-ray studies.

The most constant symptom of peptic ulcer is pain. It may be a burning ache, cramplike or gnawing pain. If the peptic ulcer is in the lower esophagus, the pain is at the lower end of the breastbone and may begin during eating or soon afterward.

The pain from an ulcer in the stomach usually starts within an hour after eating. It is usually just under the left rib margin and sometimes over the lower chest area. Duodenal ulcer pain commonly begins two to three hours after eating in a small area between the navel and the lower end of the breastbone.

Rarely, an ulcer will cause back pain or if it involves a portion of the small intestine quite some distance from the stomach, the pain may be in the middle of the abdomen or even in the lower left abdomen.

A peptic ulcer usually does not cause pain before breakfast. This more often is "burning" due to nervousness or anxiety. Ulcer pain frequently occurs at night—one to four hours after going to bed. If the pain is relieved by antacid or food, it usually does not recur until after breakfast. Pain at night usually means a severe ulcer or formation of large amounts of acid-pepsin digestive juice in the stomach.

The ulcer patient soon learns that his discomfort can be relieved by food. While the stomach churns, the valves at the inlet and outlet of the stomach are closed, preventing acid-pepsin juice from spilling out over the ulcer. The acid stomach contents bathing exposed nerve endings in and around the ulcer cause pain. The typical ulcer patient eats when the pain occurs and if he is having pain at night, he eats or drinks milk for relief.

Of course, antacids relieve peptic ulcer pain. Baking soda (not good treatment) usually provides some relief.

Some patients have a sensation of fullness in the pit of the stomach. Nausea and vomiting occur between meals but usually along with typical pain.

Among atypical symptoms of a duodenal ulcer is the occasional patient with diarrhea. The patient has an overactive digestive tract and the ulcer is only part of the picture. Eventually, a careful analysis of the problem identifies pain in the typical location above the navel or adequate X-ray studies show an ulcer.

It is true that an ulcer may not fit the "textbook" picture but most of them cause problems so much like those listed above that if you have these symptoms you can be fairly certain you have a peptic ulcer.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would an emphysema sufferer who has plants in the room all day find it harder to breathe because of the oxygen used by the plants? Would it be best to keep flowers out also?

Dear Reader—Plants actually liberate oxygen. This is one reason ecologists have been so concerned about the loss of vegetation. The small number of plants that would be in a room, however won't have any effect on the oxygen in the air. The only way plants can cause difficulty in breathing is if the person is allergic to them.

Israel Forces Told to Cut Rough Stuff

By MARTIN ZUCKER

Associated Press Writer

GAZA (AP) — Israeli security forces have been told to cut out the rough stuff in the violence-torn capital of the occupied Gaza Strip.

Informed sources said "special orders to behave" were issued following a number of complaints of beatings by the tough border police who were sent into Gaza City 11 days ago. They were ordered in because grenade attacks by Palestinian guerrillas, mostly against other Arabs, had become daily occurrences.

Israel captured the 30-mile-long Gaza Strip and its population of 400,000, many of them Palestinian refugees, in the 1967 war. The area had been under Egyptian military rule since the Palestine war in 1948.

The border police reportedly beat up suspected guerrillas during questioning and identification checks. Dr. Merrill Moore of Nashville, Tenn., chief doctor at the Baptist Hospital, said he treated some of those rounded up who required medical attention, but he said their injuries were minor.

Moore said the number of such cases "peaked" last week and has gone down since.

Some Israelis admit that the police, many of them army veterans or members of Moslem minorities inside Israel, may have overreacted to the situation.

Without referring to the methods of the police, a military spokesman said the "increased presence" has proved effective. There have been only three terrorist incidents since the extra forces arrived, he said.

"Nobody likes it much to govern the Gaza Strip by force," he added. "We hope that the period will be a short one."

In the Israeli parliament, one member said the behavior of the security troops has been detrimental to the morale and principles of the army.

Interior Minister Yosef Burg replied that no Israeli-held territory would be allowed to become a "lawless enclave of murder and terrorism."

Meanwhile, the Israeli army for more than two weeks has cordoned off the Al-Shatti refugee camp, which houses about 30,000 Palestinians along the beach front.

Two major thoroughfares in Gaza City have been put under round-the-clock curfew because of the number of grenade attacks along them. Israeli soldiers guard the intersections; residents go about their business in side alleys.

Nixon Hopes Next Two Will Be Better

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is two years in office today and any appraisal of his performance in the first half of his term should not ignore his own assessment: "I hope I do better."

Nixon is frank to concede performance fell short of his high expectations of 24 months ago, but he can take comfort from the fact he experienced no earth-shaking setbacks.

His decision last spring to send U.S. ground troops into Cambodia raised many an eyebrow and many a voice—but the operation was officially proclaimed a military success and in no way could be labeled Nixon's Bay of Pigs. He has had no such disasters.

Some observers, looking for a handy measure of presidential performance, seize upon public opinion polls that attempt to measure a chief executive's popularity.

In Nixon's case, more meaningful yardsticks can be found in statistical charts that dramatize:

1. The President's most notable success to date: His effort to gradually liquidate the Vietnam war.

2. His most notable failure: A faltering economy that did not respond to his pre-1971 prescriptions, or predictions.

When Nixon took office, there were 542,400 troops in Vietnam. Now there are about 335,000 and the level is projected to drop to 284,000 by May 1. Monthly combat deaths fell during the period from 795 to 138. Draft calls dropped from 26,800 a month to a current 17,000.

The economy presents a quite different picture. Living costs climbed from 124.1 to 137.8 as measured against a 1957-59 average of 100. The unemployment rate ballooned from 3.4 per cent of the work force to an even 6 per cent—a nine-year high. And in 1970, the broadest measure of economic activity, the Gross National Product, declined for the first time in 12 years, making allowances for inflation.

Taken together, statistics on Vietnam and the economy suggest Nixon has had offsetting ups and downs in two years. While no such conclusion should be reached on the basis of charts covering only two issues, there is some evidence to suggest that even Nixon may not disagree with the view that his 24-month record leaves him not far from where he started Jan. 20, 1969.

Otherwise, why would he be revising economic policy and voicing new promises of domestic reforms?

Quite apart from Vietnam, the chief executive can count other important accomplishments. For one thing, no cities burned, there were no major riots and, by the start of 1971, the campus mood seemed quieter. A big factor with students, perhaps, was a Nixon-initiated reform of the military draft—another plus for the administration.

Although crime rates continued to rise, they did so at a slower pace than in the last years of the Johnson administration. And while some grumbled about Nixon's approach to school desegregation, considerable progress was registered on that front in the once-recalcitrant South.

In foreign affairs, talks with the Soviets on limitation of strategic arms were launched—though negotiations slowed perceptibly as Middle East tensions mounted and produced edginess in Washington-Moscow relations.

As for the Middle East, the administration brought about an Arab-Israeli cease-fire that continued into the new year, and a potential autumn military confrontation in Jordan was avoided.

Clearly, 1969 was kinder to Nixon than 1970. Last year's congressional elections results brought him, in fact, to a low point. Since November, however, the President has made what would seem to be an effective stab at regaining the initiative.

In his first year in office, Nixon quickly gave heart to the many Americans who had tired of the Vietnam war and former President Lyndon B. Johnson's preoccupation with Asia.

After hardly warming his chair, Nixon took off for Europe, to dramatize his personal concern about that part of the world. Then, flying to Midway Island for a conference with the president of South Vietnam, he announced the first of the continuing rounds of U.S. troop withdrawals from the war zone.

A Nixon plan to install a limited number of antiballistic missiles in the United States prompted a lengthy Senate debate and his view prevailed by but a single vote.

But this close call was overshadowed by a more momentous event: The planting of the American flag on the moon by the first men to reach that goal. Basking in the reflected glory of the three pioneering astronauts, Nixon flew to the Pacific to witness their successful recovery from the sea.

Continuing what became a globe-circling journey, Nixon proceeded to Guam and there enunciated a "doctrine" that now bears his name—a general policy statement that in the future the United States would try to limit its troop role overseas and would expect its foreign friends to do more to help themselves militarily.

On the minus side, from Nixon's standpoint, the Democratic-controlled Congress did not hesitate to revise or ignore administration proposals.

The Senate handed the President his biggest direct rebuff by rejecting his Supreme Court nominee, Judge Clement F. Haynsworth of South Carolina. Early 1970 produced a new hassle with the Senate, which again spurned a Supreme Court nominee, this one G. Harrold Carswell.

Much more important was a surprise presidential announcement April 30 that he had ordered U.S. ground forces into combat in Communist-threatened Cambodia. He argued the offensive would help protect American lives in South Vietnam.

The home front exploded. Thousands of students went on strike, demonstrators laid a day-long siege to the White House, and National Guardsmen and police shot and killed students at colleges in Ohio and Mississippi.

Moreover, Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel wrote the President a forceful letter that argued the administration was not paying sufficient heed to young people or, for that matter, to Cabinet members.

On June 30, the last American combat man left Cambodia and the domestic uproar died away.

Meanwhile on Capitol Hill, Congress blocked action on Nixon's most ambitious domestic proposal, a welfare reform plan to guarantee all poor families with children a minimum annual income of $1,600. Side-tracked, too, was a key Nixon program to share federal tax revenues with state and local governments.

One major Nixon reform was enacted, under the spur of a disruptive wave of illegal strikes by postal workers. Congress voted to transform the Post Office Department into a government corporation and to relinquish its power to fix postal rates.

After a quick trip to Europe last fall, Nixon returned home to undertake a different kind of voyaging: A series of campaign tours in behalf of Republican candidates, especially those running for the House and Senate.

Despite his strenuous efforts, and the even more energetic endeavors of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, GOP hopes of capturing control of the Senate went aglimmering. Democrats gained important governorships plus nine House seats and were voted control of additional state legislatures.

Regrouping for the second two years of his term, Nixon shuffled his Cabinet and White House staff. Hickel was fired from Interior. David M. Kennedy stepped down as secretary of the Treasury to become a roving ambassador. And Nixon startled many in both parties by making John B. Connally Jr., former Democratic governor of Texas, his choice to succeed Kennedy. More than one Republican thought the President could have found a deserving GOP partisan for the post.

Started Meetings
Camp or revival meetings are said to have begun in 1799 to 1801 by James McGready, a Presbyterian, who initiated them in Logan County, Ky., according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

First Aid for Scouts

"First Aid" was the subject of Fridays meeting for Cadette Troop No. 75 when they met at the Girl Scout Little House.

During the day the scouts learned simple first aid; splinting and bandaging; various carry positions for transporting victims; and care for accident and disaster victims in preparation for the "emergency preparedness challenge" which will be issued later in the year.

Attending were Donna Cox, Jodi Duncan, Robin McLelland, Nalda Patton, Vickie Perkins, Debbye Petre, Donna Rowe, Shirley Sinyard, and Sandra Whitaker. Visiting were Donna Petre and Sydnee Sinyard. Adults present were Mrs. Kenneth E. Petre, Mrs. John M. Cox, Mrs. Earl Whitaker, and Mrs. Gail Sinyard.

Jones Thinks He Was Treated Like a Mutt

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Senate confirmed the appointment of George Kell to the state Highway Commission Wednesday, acting swiftly while Sen. Guy H. "Mutt" Jones, who opposed the appointment, was out of the chamber.

The appointment was the first to be submitted by Gov. Dale Bumpers. The Senate acted without controversy, but when Jones learned what had transpired in his brief absence, he was enraged.

Bumpers sent the appointment to the Senate during debate on the administration's turnpike authority bill. When the Senate voted on the bill, Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton, Kell's hometown, asked that Senate rules be suspended.

Jones was in the chamber when Harvey rose to be recognized, but went out the door to confer with an Arkansas Children's Colony official who had asked to see him.

The Senate suspended the rules by a voice vote and then confirmed the appointment of Kell to succeed Truman Baker of Searcy, whose term expired Jan. 17.

A newsman met Jones as he re-entered the Senate and said reporters had thought Jones planned to fight the appointment of Kell.

"It hasn't come up yet," Jones said.

The newsman told Jones the Senate had just confirmed Kell, Jones exclaimed, "What!," and marched to Harvey's desk where the two senators agitatedly exchanged words out of the hearing of reporters.

Jones turned and went back to his desk, with Harvey trailing in an apparent attempt to mollify his colleague. Harvey later returned to his own desk.

For about 30 minutes, Jones related to fellow senators in private conversations his view of the situation, telling newsmen, "I'm too mad to talk to you now."

After the Senate adjourned he told reporters, however, that he had told Harvey four times that he didn't want the Kell appointment considered until he had had time to confer with the appointee.

"Because of intolerable pressure put on me regarding roads and highways, it is a matter of necessity that I know what terms I'm going to be on with the commissioners," Jones said. "I've never met Mr. Kell. From all I heard, he's a very high-type person, but I like to look a man in the eye and talk directly with him."

Jones was out of the chamber only about a minute. "It was the first time I had been out of the chamber all day," he said.

An Admitted Candlelight Killer Is Dead

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — "The candlelight killer strikes again" was scrawled in pencil across the closet door. Candles burned near the body when police arrived.

The murder, one of several ritualistic slayings still puzzling authorities in the West, was discovered June 7, but the young man who admitted scribbling the phrase has taken further details to the grave.

Robert Willard Liberty, 23, was found strangled with his own shirt in his jail cell Wednesday, five days before the start of his trial in the June murder of a male nurse.

Liberty admitted in writing that he penciled "the candlelight killer strikes again" on a closet door in the apartment of Robert Friorn, 52, who was found beaten, stabbed and strangled, Police Lt. Ed Stevens said. But Stevens said Liberty did not admit the slaying.

Stevens said authorities had hoped the trial of Liberty would shed light on several other unsolved murders in the West involving candles and other "additions."

Single Member District Aim of Officials

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers, Atty. Gen. Ray Thornton and Secretary of State Kelly Bryant said Wednesday they will aim to create only single-member districts in the new legislative apportionment.

The three men constitute the new state Board of Apportionment, which held its first meeting Wednesday to discuss preparations for drawing new legislative districts in line with the 1970 state census figures.

At the same time, they received confirmation that the state's 1970 population total was 1,293,295.

Under that figure, the ideal population figure for each of the 35 Senate districts would be 54,952 and for each of the 100 House districts the figure would be 19,232.

The board members would not commit themselves unequivocally to single-member districts, but said that would be their aim so long as the concept is practicable.

MACK McLARTY

of importance or urgency. I am pleased to tell you that I was selected for membership on three important committees — agriculture, industrial development and banking. I hope to work for the betterment of our county through the framework of these three committees.

As he had earlier promised, Governor Bumpers presented his package of 27 proposals when he officially began work on Monday. Knowing that his program must be accomplished within 60 days, his staff should be commended for getting down to business immediately.

Through news reports in the STAR and on radio and television, I am sure most of you know that the Governor's primary proposals include: major departmental reorganization of the state government, pollution control, fair trade liquor repeal, turnpikes, and his first priority — education.

The Governor has stated in meetings with the legislature that he wants to get a "handle" on government so all agencies can work efficiently and toward a common purpose. It is his feeling that perhaps some agencies have grown so autonomous that many overlapping functions exist throughout state government. I am sure you support, as I do, any measures which would improve economy and efficiency in government. When you have 187 state boards, agencies, and commissions there are bound to be some areas which need consolidation, answering more directly to the Governor and to the voters.

In our campaign of this summer we stated that state government should be operated as a business, headed by professional, qualified people. For these reasons I support the majority of the Governor's proposed reorganization bill, although there are a few areas open to special consideration.

I will explore these issues more in depth as they reach action in the House. Many of you are concerned about increased taxes. I support the view that we must cut out all the "fat" from existing budgets and programs before asking for more tax revenues. As additional taxes are needed, the people and the corporations should be taxed according to their ability to pay. The majority of our fellow legislators feel that additional taxes should be discussed only after proof of need and proof of administrative economy.

Finally, we must say that your response to our recent questionnaire has been tremendous. Donna Kay and I are preparing a report on your replies and will provide the results in a future column. We thank you for your interest. If any of you are in Little Rock and would like to drop by the legislature for a visit we would be so pleased to see you. If we can be of any service you can call 372-6151 — our Little Rock business number.

We are most grateful to the Hope Star for this journalistic public service. It is our hope that this column will provide a means of communication between my fellow Hempstead Countians and your Representative. It is a way to honor the campaign pledge of last summer to "honor your right to know that is going on in the Arkansas Legislature and to be available to you at all times."

Unrest in Congress Over Indochina

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Congress opened today amidst renewed unrest about the continued U.S. role in Indochina that marked the last session.

—Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, demanded an inquiry by the Foreign Relations Committee on whether the Nixon administration's expansion of U.S. military activity in Cambodia violates limitations enacted at the end of the 91st Congress.

—Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., was quoted as saying more than 1,000 Thai troops, aided by U.S. logistical support, have been sent into southern Laos. Such a move risks "growing American embroilment" and could jeopardize hopes for continued U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam, Mondale declared.

—An aide to a Republican senator on the Foreign Relations Committee who asked not be named said the current use of helicopter gunboats and other aircraft in Cambodia could lead to new effort by the 92nd Congress to restrict U.S. air actions there.

Church, a committee member and author with Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., of the amendment that barred U.S. combat ground troops and military advisers from Cambodia, requested the committee probe in a statement Wednesday.

At the same time, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird defended the U.S. air role in the current South Vietnamese-Cambodian drive to open a highway linking the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh with the sea.

"We have this authority spelled out in congressional authorization," Laird told a Pentagon news conference.

He did not specify the source of the authorization. A proposal to limit U.S. air activity over Cambodia, contained in an earlier Cooper-Church amendment that was approved by the Senate but blocked by the House, was dropped from the measure passed last month and signed by President Nixon.

The aide to the GOP senator said the administration's reliance on this omission "is just inviting us" to pass additional restrictions.

Church's statement noted that the Cooper-Church amendment specifies that funds may not be used to finance U.S. combat ground troops in Cambodia, or to provide advisers for Cambodian military forces in Cambodia.

"The committee should obtain a full and detailed disclosure of the expanded use of American personnel in Cambodia, in order to determine whether the restrictions imposed by the Cooper-Church amendment are being adhered to, and whether the intent of the Congress not to expand our involvement in Cambodia as we did in Vietnam—is being respected in current operations there," he said.

According to tradition, St. Luke was a painter. Portraits of the Virgin were ascribed to him in the early Christian centuries.
